To the Editor of The Evening Star: that when the price of gas was lower there was no lowering in the gas bills. Why that should be so is one of the things that, as Dundreary says, "no fellow can find out." One thing, however, the experience of more than twenty years has this time. As soon as McKinley was elected go enabled me to find out and that is that new gas ernor the board was reorganized with three reneters register more than old ones and that it publicans and two demis quite vain for any who think their meters register too much to expect to fare better by changing the meter. An old meter is a thing to rejoice in. I have had mine changed several times and each time I have found my bills increased. My present meter registers 100 feet for every 66 feet of gas used, provided the gas tips tiel a true story; and that new meters register more than old ones I have the authority of a man well experienced in all gas matters. I am not seeking now to change the meter that registers 100 feet where that registers 100 feet where that registers 100 feet when it should register 66! Every one has noticed, I suppose, small bills than other houses of same size where but little is used. Let those who have small bills than their old meters for their good. luck. For more than twenty years my gas bills have been about twice as large as they should be—sometimes more than my bills for fuel—and yet the good and faithful student lamp has been my chief reliance for good light. If there is to be a reform in Washington gas light many son management of the institution. I predict will welcome it. Some cities have supplied gas that the action of the board in the present inome in that H. C. L. to citizens. Perhaps our help will con

A Protest Against Discrimination. A meeting of the residents of Mt. Pleasant and Columbia Heights washeld at the residence of Dr. Wm. A. Hammond, 13th and Princeton streets, Saturday afternoon, for the purpose of protesting against the course pursued by the express and telegraph companies in requiring residents of those suburbs to pay an additional charge on packages and messages addressed "Washington, D. C." Dr. Hammond was elected chairman and Mr. J. K. Eppley secretary of the meeting, and a set of resolutions presented by Mr. C. M. Campbell setting forth the object of the meeting were unanimously adopted. It was also decided that those present would refuse to trade with those market and other dealers who made an extra charge for delivering their goods in the suburbs.

To the Editor of The Evening Star:
The question of the filthy condition of the streets of this city can be settled just as soon as the Commissioners accept the facts connected therewith. In the first place I make the broad assertion that no two horses that ever stood on shoes can draw a street sweeper, and all the experience of this city has been to and all the experience of this city has been to prove this assertion. The Gleason machines, the Anderson, the Smith and the present Chicago are all a miserable failure. The proper name for them is smearing machines. Watch one of them for a square, they merely plaster the filth onto the pavement. I saw one on H street a few days ago. The street was wet and covered with black, slippery mud and the machines merely smoothed it out. After they had gone over the whole square they did not collect a bucketful, where they should have gotten half a cart load. The work of constructing the gallows began on Friday. It will be twenty feet long and eight feet wide. There will be four traps, on each of which will stand two persons. These traps will be operated by a lever and the drop will be simultaneous.

Gov. Brown seems to be considerably disturbed over the responsibility resting on him. He has received a great many petitions for and against executive elemency in four of the eight a cart load. lishment of a home in this city for disabled confederate veterans and for the widows of veterans. Col. M. S. Thompson explained the project, and after some discussion it was determined to hold another meeting in furtherance of the project this week at the Ebbitt and the last moment relieving the boys of the terrible implication of guilt which now rests upon them.

On the other side the claim of extreme youth is denied. Some of the most prominent people of Chestertown and Kent county are stubbornly opposed to any interference in the law's negative.

The key was in the lock on the inside, and this probably pre-vented the lock from being picked. It will be well for those having valuable horses to be on the alert. The police will do well to keep watch on the alleys and other similar places where there are stables.

Father Mathew Total Abstinence Society. Mr. M. F. Donohue last evening addressed the meeting of the Father Mathew Total Abstinence Society at the hall, 5th and G streets northwest, upon "The Greatest Question of the Day," the eradicating of the liquor trade. The hall was crowded. The audience listened attentively to the speaker, who stated that not only the moral standard of men was raised in states where prohibition existed, but their political standard was also higher. The highest license could not be sufficiently remunerative to a city to meet expenses necessitated in punishing crime that found its inception either directly or indirectly in the drink habit. Mr. Wm. F. Downey spoke of the great benefit men derived spiritually, materially and temporally from being total abstainers. He appealed to the young men present to think seriously of their future, and, as a safeguard against temptation, to take the pledge of the society. At the close of the meeting eighteen young men took the pledge of total abstinence. hall was crowded. The audience listened

Dr. David, James Burrell, Rev. John L. Scudder, Rev. Madison C. Peters, John P. Quinn, the anti-gambling crusader, and others. Resolutions were passed condemning horse racing, pool selfing and the publication of "tips" in the newspapers. The Ives pool law was also attacked and all were asked to unite in working for its repeal. Mr. Quinn's crusade against gambling was strongly indorsed and a recommendation was made that a national anti-gambling league be formed.
